*“HIGHWAY
OF MEMORIES”*

*EAST HIGH SCHOOL
Memphis, Tennessee*

Linda Crawford — Editor
Raleigh Crawford — Assistant Editor
Piego Garrison — Business Manager
Miss Margaret Said — Adviser

HIGHWAY OF MEMORIES

Theme

In each movement, in each decision, the student of East High has formulated a distinct basis for his future. He stops. He ponders the memories which linger from his high school days. Memories of fun and frustration, of happiness and hopelessness, of silliness and sorrow. He also looks ahead to a future whose memories are not yet made. What lies ahead, no one knows; what lies behind can be found in these pages—this Highway of Memories.

MRS. ROSE D. MILLER

Dedication

Once in a long while we find a person truly dedicated to her life's calling, a person profoundly set toward her ambitions and goals, and a person with the knowledge, understanding, and determination to reach these goals. Such a person is our Mrs. Miller.

Her services to East High and her interest in each student, as an individual, have won for her far more than this dedication; they have won for her a place along our own highway of memories that very few can claim.

Why should we search further for words to describe our feelings for her when our Alma Mater portrays them so well:

"... These days with you will never die, Nor will our love for you."

*How dear to all our mem'ries
And fondest dreams we'll share
Are days we've spent within your halls
With friends who tarried there.*

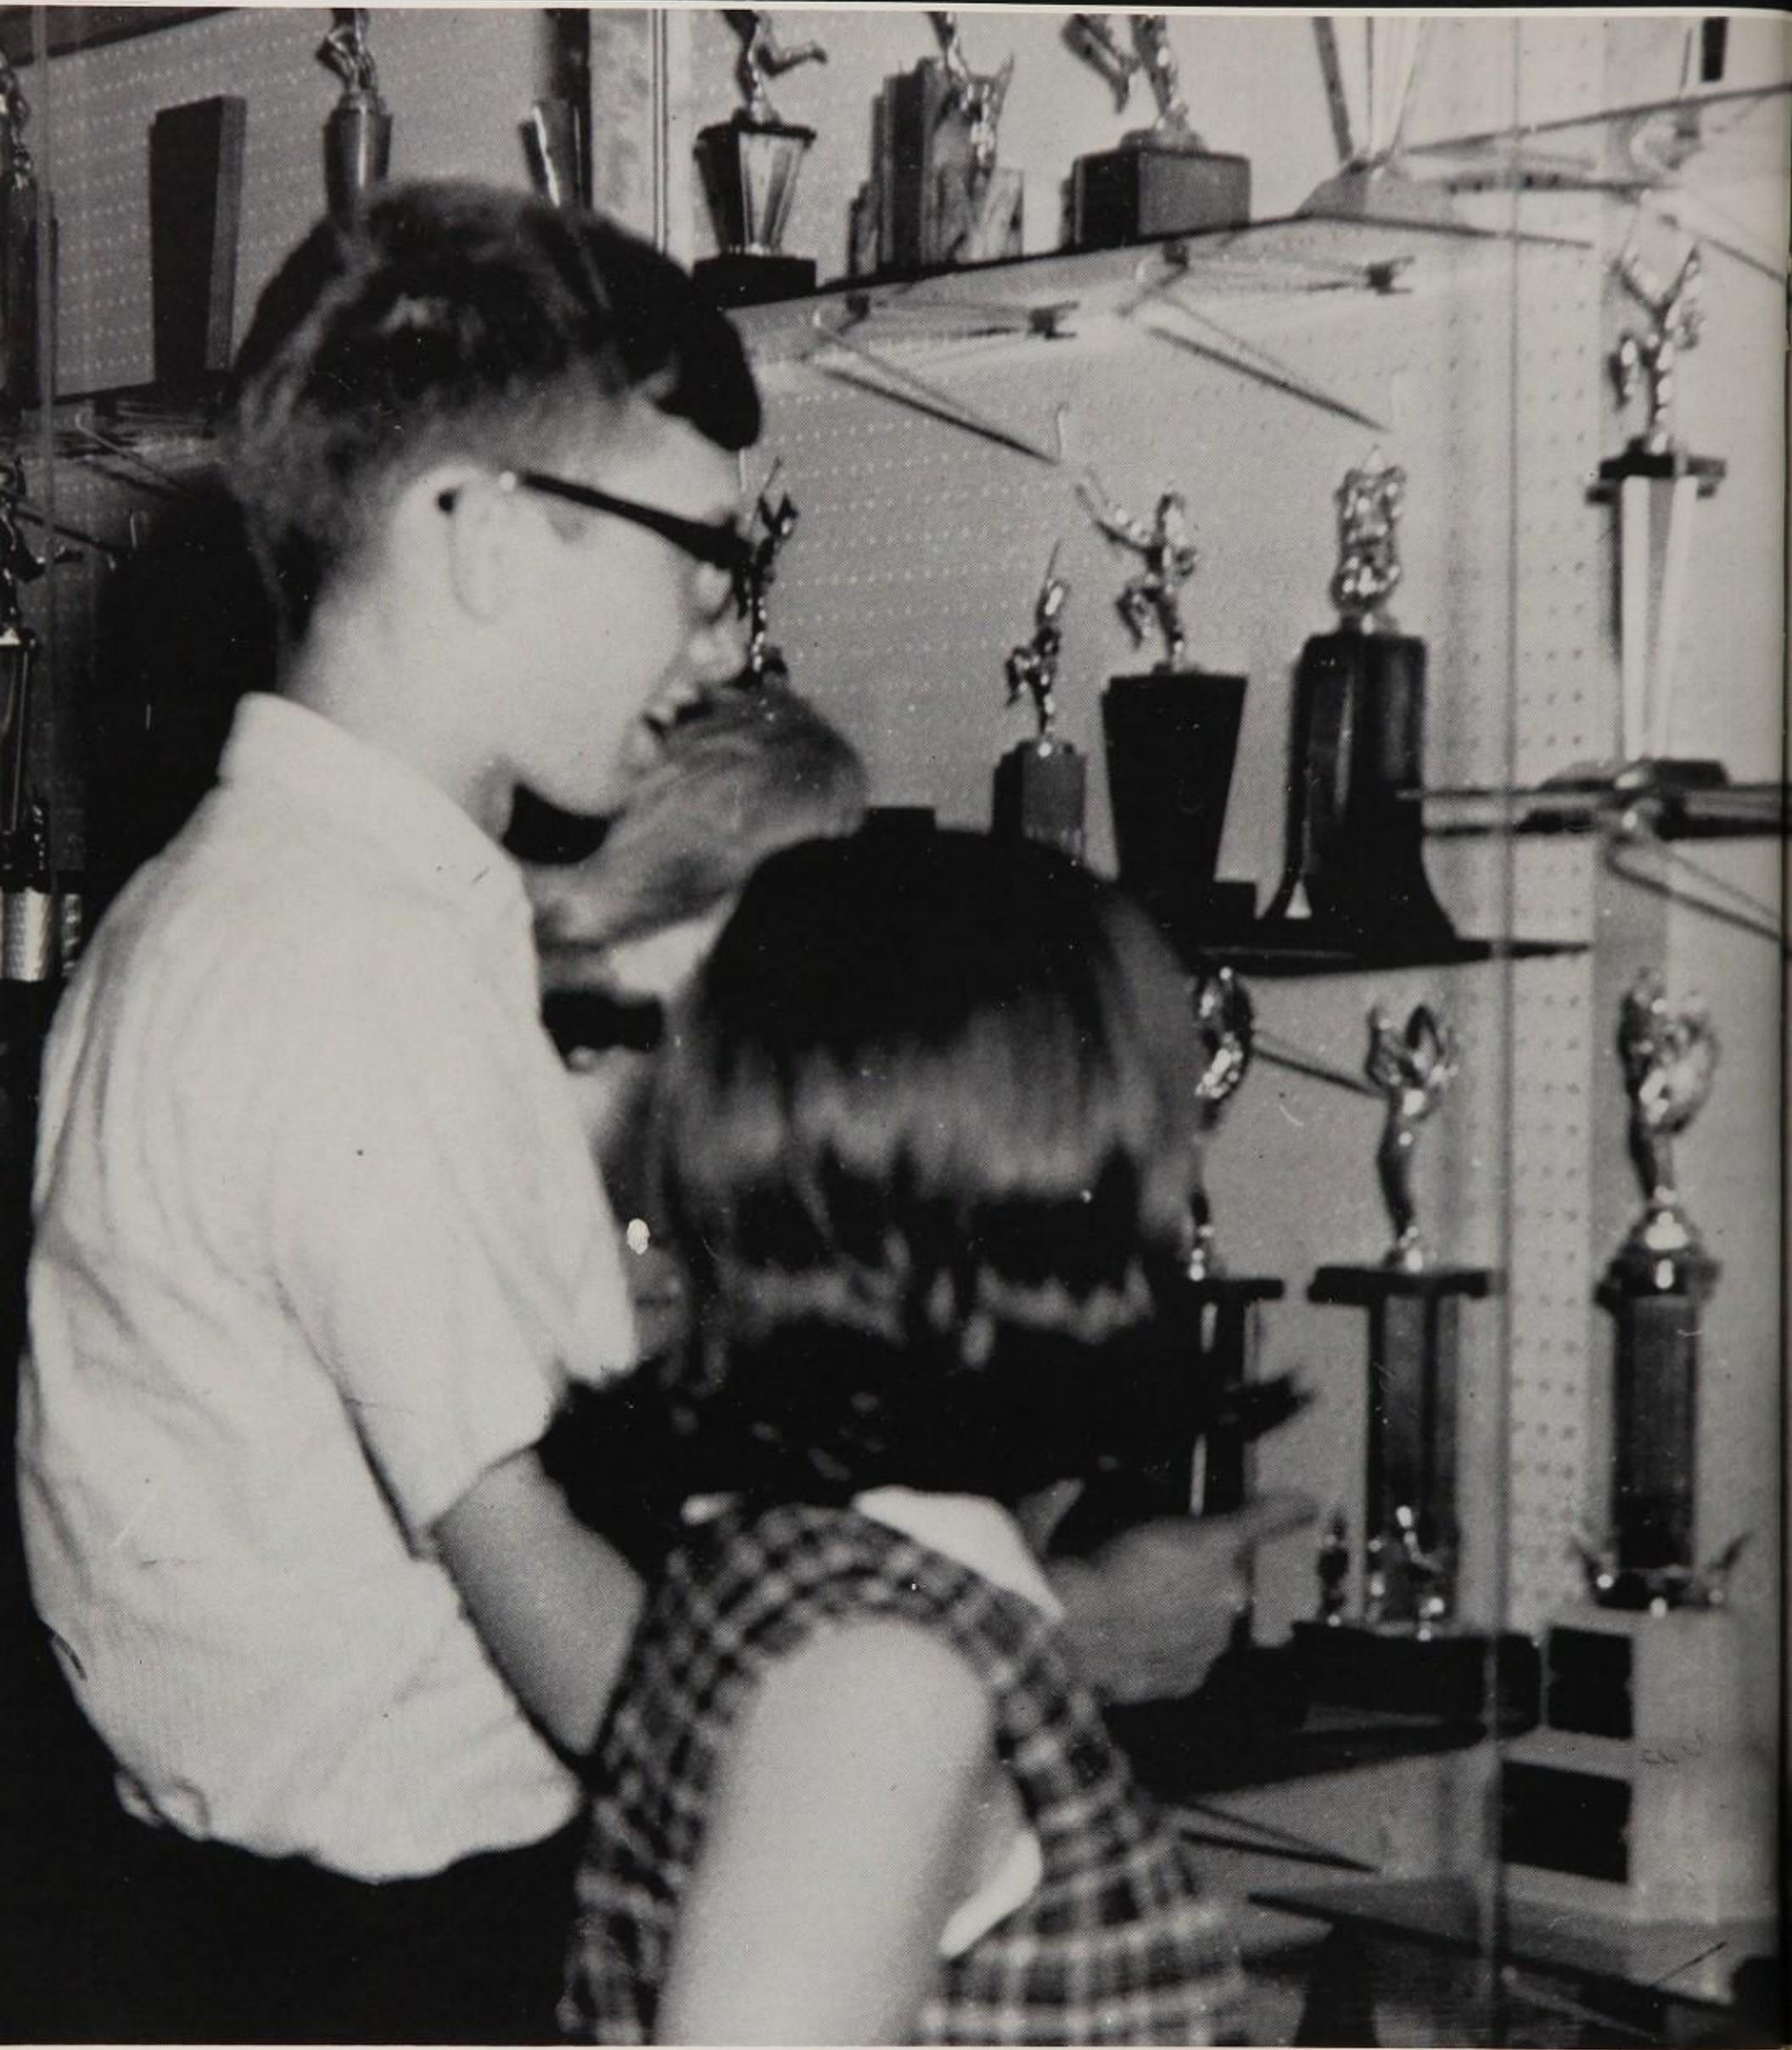

*Our hearts sing out to thee,
Alma Mater, to the sky;*

*We'll always and lo
Dear old*

*think of you
ve you,
East High!*

*We love and cherish thee
And you'll always find us true,*

*For all you've meant to us
these years
In mem'ry lives anew.*

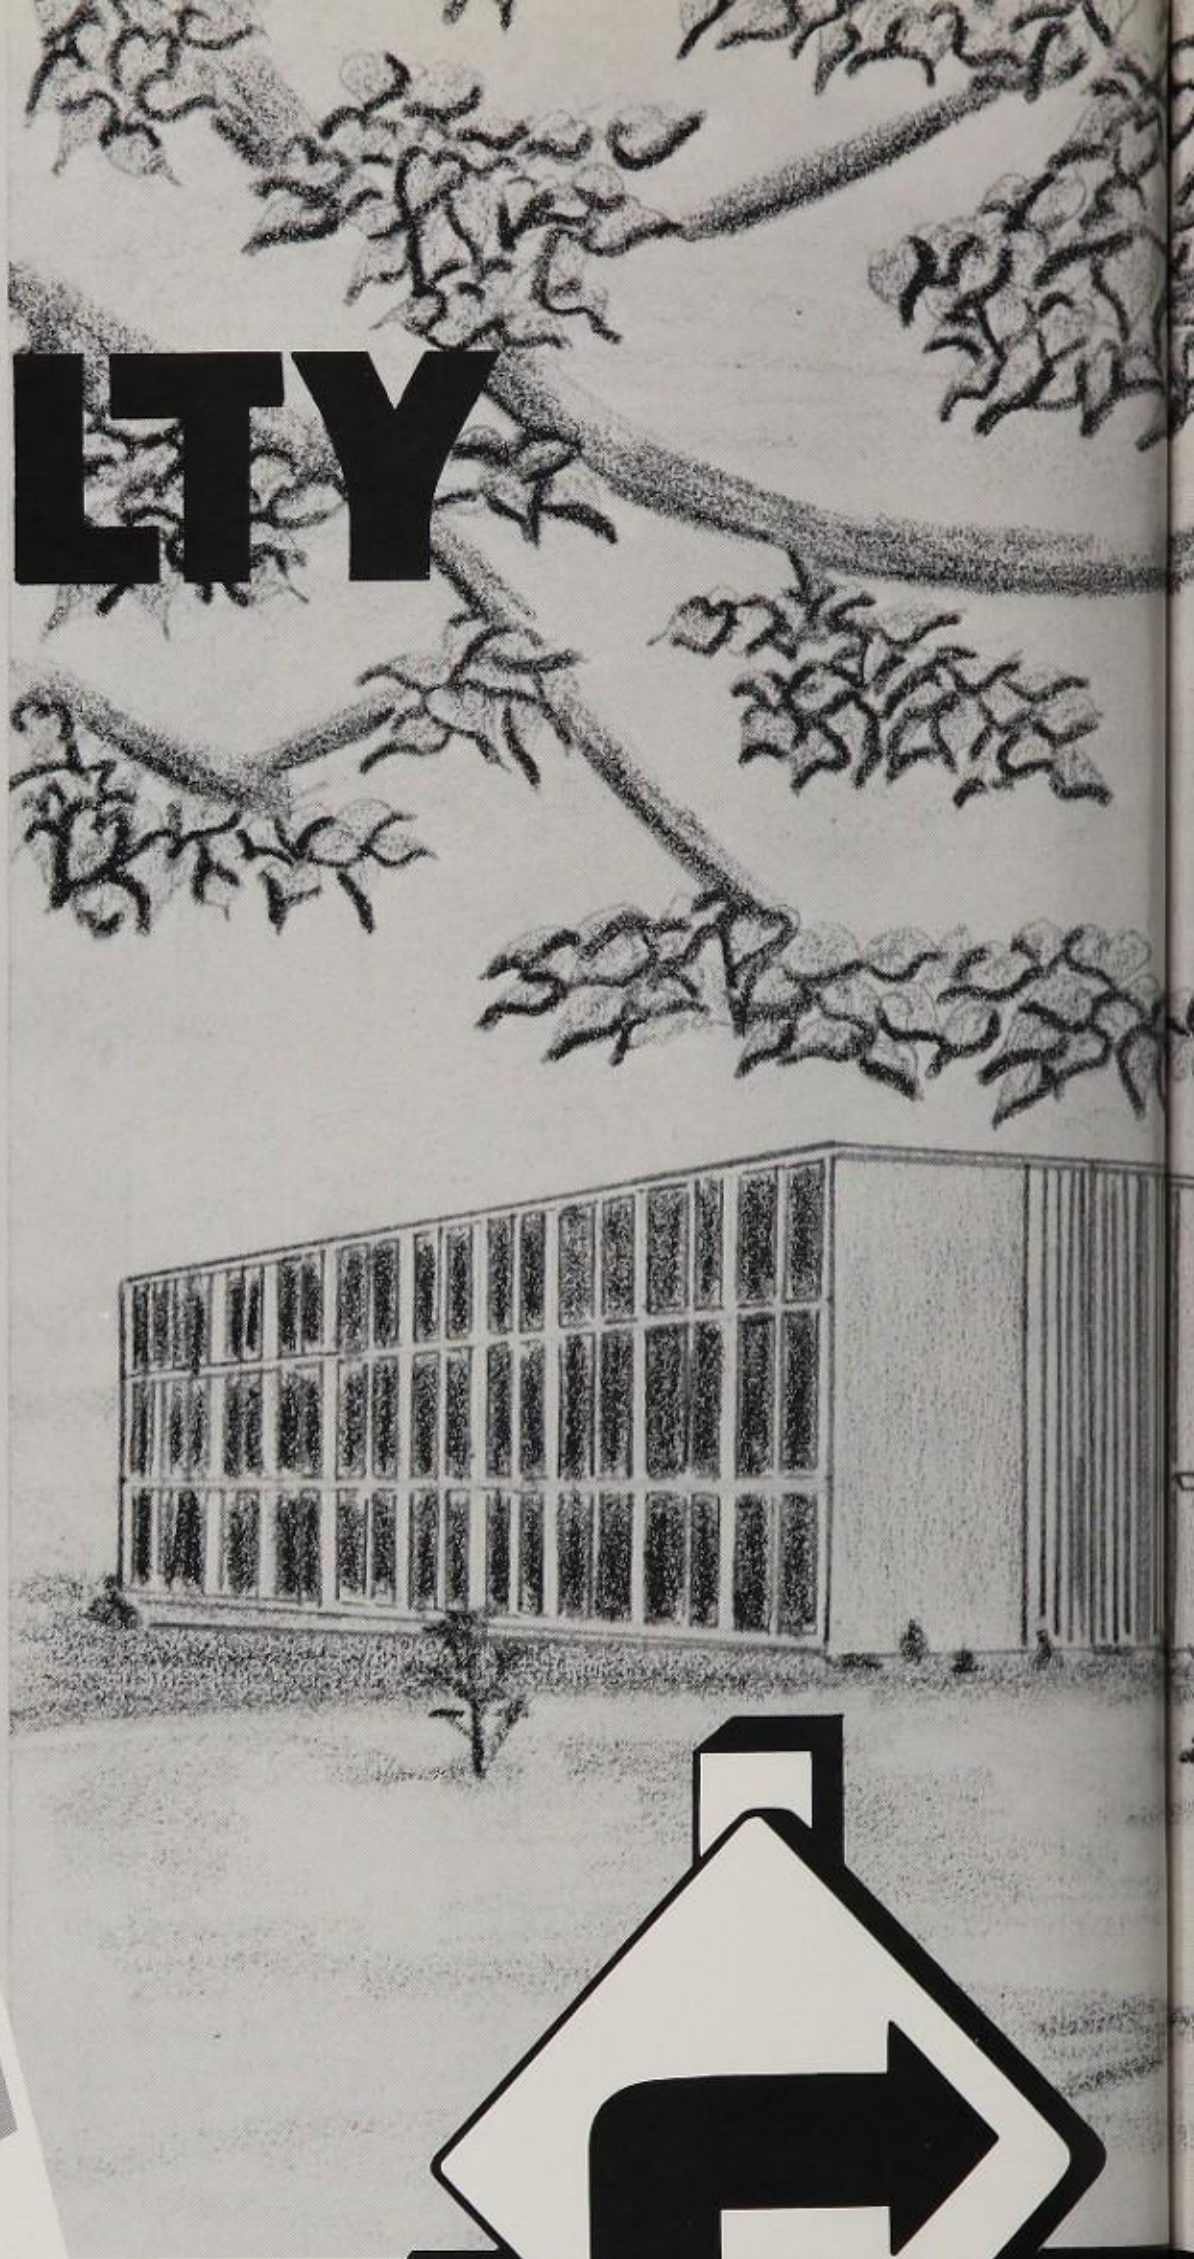

*Our lamp of knowledge brightly burns,
We owe its light to you;
These days with you will never die;
Nor will our love for you.*

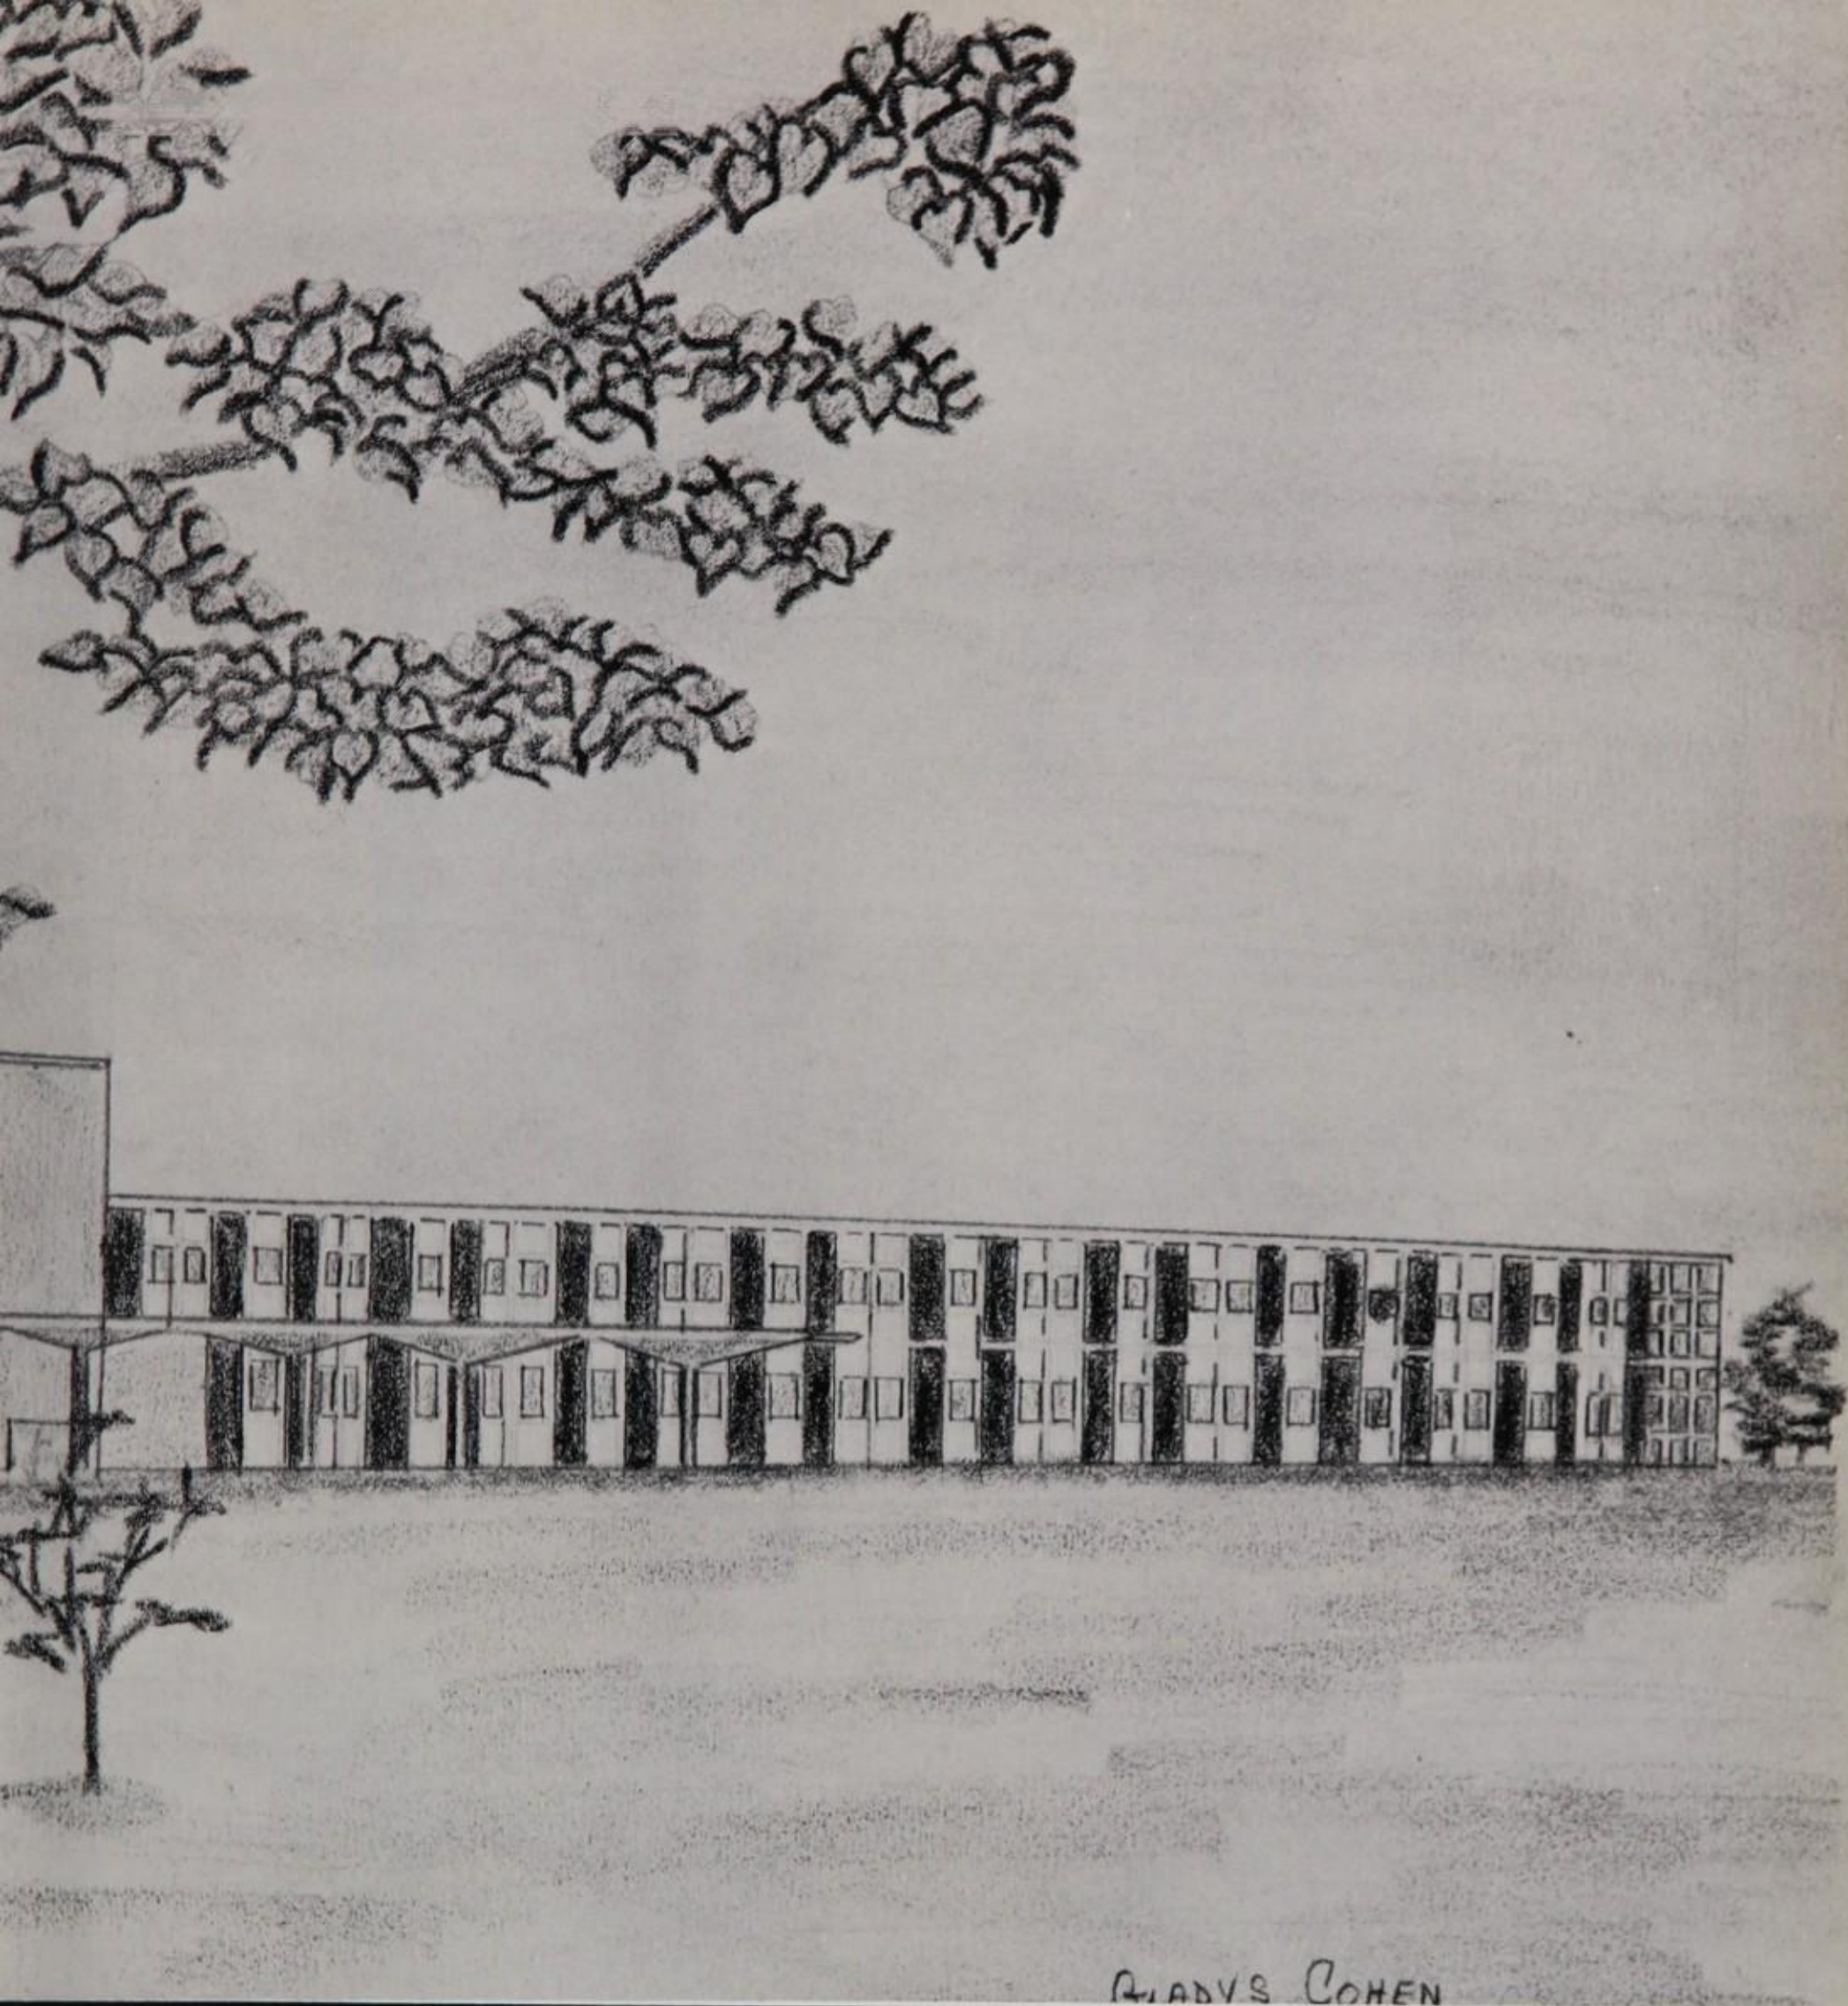

FACULTY

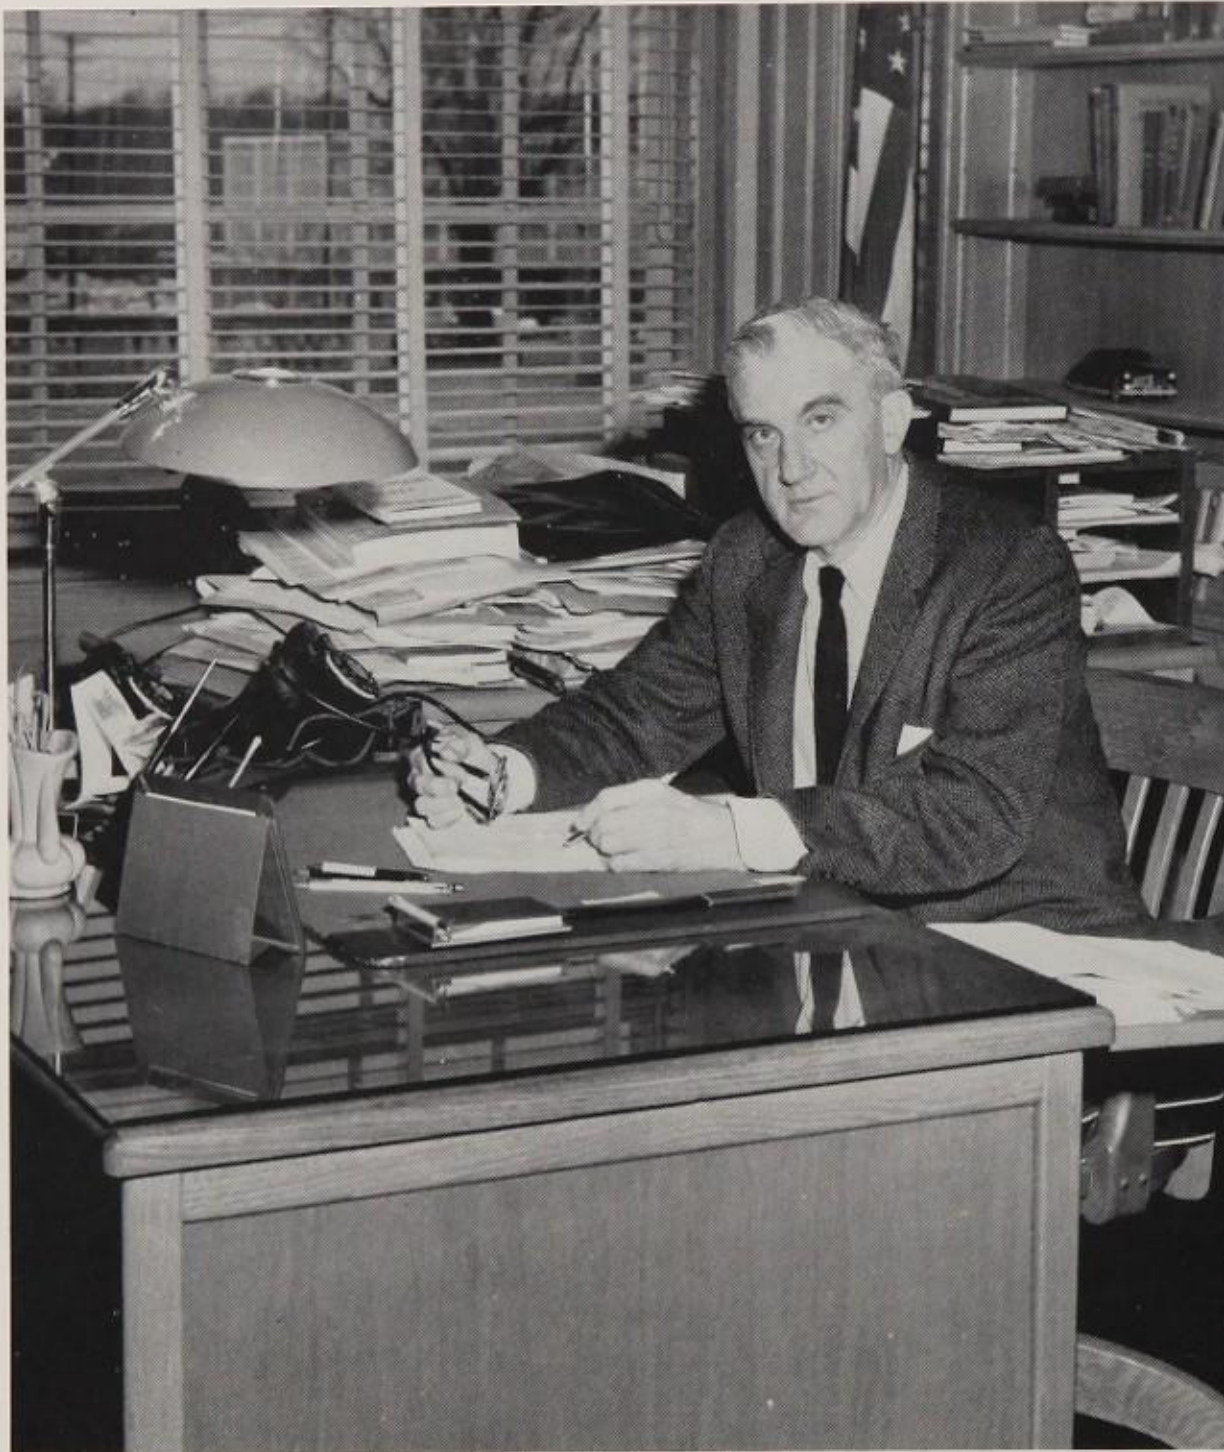

Julia Maddox

The student knows the right turn sign well. It is a sign given by each member of the faculty of East High to help the student make the right turn in getting a sound education. Through the Board of Education, which is the nucleus of the Memphis City Schools, efficient teachers are employed to provide invaluable instruction and helpful counseling.

International interest is fostered by foreign language studies at East High. Three years of French, Latin, or Spanish develop an understanding of the customs of other countries, as well as skill in reading and speaking the language. Modern listening labs supplement traditional methods to give each student an increased range of comprehension.

From the organization of the universe to the arrangement of an atom, East High students explore a variety of scientific topics. General science, biology, chemistry, and physics courses are often the basis for individual research. The quality and diversity of projects entered in the 1964 Science Fair show noteworthy achievement and are a tribute to the science teachers.

The study of people in other countries and of the changing times in history provides a fascinating clue to the future. A wide variety of courses, including Tennessee history, American history, world history, world geography, civics, and problems of democracy afford a broad outlook on an increasingly complex world. The problems of today are often clarified by the answers of the past.

SENIORS

Diane Davis

The senior fast approaches a junction in his Highway of Memories. He must leave the sheltered ways of high school and enter into a hard, harsh world. He may get a job; he may go to college. Nevertheless, he will have to make decisions and be on his own. From now on, his life will be the way he lives it.

CLASSES

Dale Purvis

The school sign signifies that a place of learning is at hand. A place filled with students who go from one classroom to another throughout the day. Seventh graders, seniors, sophomores, freshmen—each student is a part of a class, and each class is characterized by the students who comprise it.

Games of hopscotch, jump rope, and leapfrog are enjoyed by frolicking children at play. From grammar school, to junior high, to high school, the child develops various interests. Games fade away, and activities pertaining to school unfold. Language clubs bring the student closer to the peoples and customs of a country. Honorary organizations tap the most outstanding students in journalism, scholarship, and citizenship. Constructive activities help to form a strong character in a student.

East High speaks proudly of the 1963-64 Student Council. A carefully planned year was launched by the Council's welcoming assembly. Football season kept Diane busy with buses to the games and the dances in the gym every Friday night. East's Pep Club was started with the guidance of DeAnn. The football team was honored with an assembly and luncheon during Spirit Week. Eddie sold sweat shirts as a new council project, and the Jr. High participated in more activities through Betty and Jim. The bright red passes showed Claudia's efforts and the improved cafeteria labeled Bill as a worker, too.

Council

The group worked endlessly during the year as Sec.-Treas. of the Memphis Association of Student Councils. Brotherhood Week proved inspiring to many, and the Student Council's Armistice Day assembly will be remembered as East's first. Delegates Ellen and Fred represented the school at the Southern Association of Student Councils' Convention at Monroe, La. The year ended with the annual college assembly and the spring induction of the new council. Yet, how can East forget such workers, for through our council Memphis participated in the exchange student program for the first time and brought to us the unforgettable Vicki Henderson. The year is gone but not forgotten. The memories given us by the 1963-64 Student Council will live on.

Key Club

The Key Club is an international organization sponsored by Kiwanis International. The East High Key Club is composed of thirty "key" boys in the school, fifteen seniors, ten juniors, and five sophomores chosen yearly. All members must possess high traits of leadership, character, service, and scholarship. The East High Key Club annually publishes a student directory and conducts charity drives. In recognition of the Key Club's school safety program this year, the club was awarded both the Frances Robinson and the Robert Glisson Safety Cups.

Early in the fall the Student Council organized the Pep Club in an effort to stimulate school spirit. Working with the cheerleaders, the Pep Club immediately tried to enlarge the student body attendance at football games. Members worked hard during and after school to make spirit signs for the halls. The task of decorating the stadiums was also performed by Pep Club members.

Spirit Week and Homecoming inspired elaborate plans, such as the skit presented by the Pep Club the day of the game. The club members also painted signs with basketball players' numbers for all home games.

The 1963-64 East High Thespian Club had the largest membership in the club's history. To attain membership one must gain points by seeing, participating in, or helping with dramatic productions.

Thespians, hindered by a time shortage, did not produce a play this year. Nevertheless, they gave full support to the music department's production of Oklahoma.

The chorus this year has advanced greatly under the supervision of the new vocal music teacher, Miss Bolen. With her hard work and the enthusiasm of the students three choruses were formed: the seventh grade, eighth grade, and senior high choruses. They met during ROTC period and before school, practicing hard for the many fine programs they presented. The efforts of three of the singers were rewarded by their selection to the All Memphis Chorus, which sang for the West Tennessee Music Teachers' Convention. The junior high chorus participated in the homecoming ceremony during half time at Hodges Field. In December both students and parents enjoyed a beautiful Christmas program. The whole chorus presented the Christmas cantata, The Christ Child, and several popular Christmas carols. The climax of the year was the production of Oklahoma in conjunction with the band and the Thespian Society.

Key Club safety program

On August 21, 1963, I arrived in Memphis, confused and exhausted, after traveling across two continents from Southern Rhodesia, Central Africa. Several students greeted me warmly at the airport, and since that day I have been thoroughly spoiled by the kindness and hospitality shown me by all East High.

I shall be forever grateful to the Turnbulls, my American family. It is not easy to suddenly add a teenager to an already large family, but they readily opened their hearts and home to me.

The American Field Service, which originated from a volunteer ambulance service during the war, has had 3,000 students studying in the United States this year. Renate, the Austrian girl, and I are the first posted in Memphis, but I hope we are the beginning of a long line of them. The motto of the A.F.S. is: "Walk together, talk together, then and only then shall we have peace on earth." I have come to realize that this ideal can be fulfilled by meeting teenagers from many lands. People are really basically the same all over the world, with the same hopes and fears and the tremendous desire for peace; and A.F.S. students, in their small way, are trying to make this desire a reality by promoting international understanding.

I want all East High to know that this year has been a most profitable and unforgettable experience and that without your help it could not have been possible. I could never hope to express my gratitude in words, but I hope from the bottom of my heart that all of your futures are filled with happiness, health, and success. I shall be looking forward to seeing you again one day, and God bless you all.

GLADYS COHEN

Perhaps the cadet will never have to worry about encountering this sign, but the R.O.T.C. program enables him to become better acquainted with military procedures. Uniforms, activity periods, shined shoes, war movies, and demerits pop into his mind when R.O.T.C. is mentioned. A better disciplined student and citizen develops through participating in this program.

PASSING

No passing—this sign warns that the games, the fellowship the cheers, the banners, the bus rides, the tournaments, which both students and players participate in, cannot be surpassed. Memories of supporting the Blind Game team or cheering a downtrodden group arise as the student remembers his part in East High's athletic program.

What a difference a year makes . . .

Precisely 365 days ago East had finished its most successful Prep League football campaign in history with a tie for the Eastern Division championship. Coach Bobby Brooks was readying the Mustangs for the Lions Club Blind Benefit Game.

Graduation eliminated the majority of the 1962 squad. The remainder, however, was supposed to give Brooks and assistant coaches Pat Patterson and Mike Roland enough to come up with a decent showing. This probably would have been the case were it not for a series of injuries that almost defies the imagination. What has happened to the 1963 Mustangs as the saying goes, shouldn't happen to a dog.

No less than 13 athletes that were counted on to shoulder the burden this fall have been injured seriously enough to miss East's final game Thursday night against Tech. In the season climax, Tech handed the Mustangs their 10th straight defeat. East only managed four touchdowns, and half that total came Thursday night.

Brooks, who has shouldered the fantastic streak of mishaps and can still talk about the future, said, "We haven't started the same team in two straight games. In practice we do the exact same thing we did last season and we only had one injury. We even spent two weeks more in conditioning than we did last year. There is nobody in the city more properly conditioned.

"Fate has been the No. 1 reason," Brooks added. "A key has been that we have not been in football position when a blow was struck by the other team."

A hint of what was in store for East this season was offered a week before practice opened. Dick Fletcher, slated to have been one of the league's top quarterbacks, was playing in a touch game, fell on his knee and tore the ligaments and cartilage, requiring an operation. Then as the season began, Joe Companiotte, who had been moved to quarterback from halfback, broke his leg on the first play of the Jamboree and missed seven games. On his return, Joe's leg was still stiff and he had trouble running. The next game casualty was end Bill Turner, who matched Fletcher's knee injury in the first quarter of the second game (Messick), was operated on and missed the remainder of the season. On the first play of the second half of the Messick game, halfback Johnny Everett dislocated his shoulder and was out for the year.

Also in the Messick game, fullback Bill McDonald sustained a shoulder separation, missed two games, returned for Christian Brothers, during which he sprained his ankle and missed two more tilts. The next game was against Trezevant, which cost the services of two more regulars, guard Richard Hoffman with a knee injury that required an operation, and guard Fred Kuhns, who was blocked from the front and received a knee strain. It was not operated on, but he missed the remaining games.

Bill Templeton, a sophomore who filled in admirably in the absence of the top two quarterbacks, met his downfall in the next game, against White Station. In the second quarter he pulled the ligaments in his arm and missed two games. Late in the game, starting halfback Buddy Ritchey strained his knee badly enough to require a cast and he joined the others out for the season.

By mid-season the Mustangs were operating without a dozen previous regulars and the CBHS game added another member, tackle Ned Priest, who received a knee strain and missed three games. Then came Westside and more of the same. Tackle Lee Addington chipped a bone in his leg and was finished. End Terry Johnson complained of a head injury after the game and later that week a doctor said he suffered a slight concussion. Sophomore halfback Al Britt twisted his knee and missed two games.

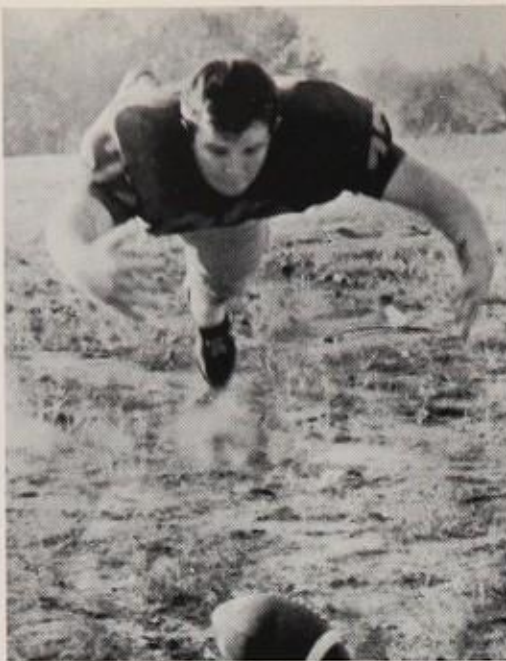

David Wheat was the only casualty against Kingsbury, bruising his shoulder causing him to miss one game. Then against Humes, end Bill Patterson broke his thumb, shelving him for the campaign. Sophomore halfback Tim Eaton, who starred in a pair of games, saw his season ended against Treadwell with a bruised knee, as did center Larry Kahn.

East had an open date last Friday, but the misfortune kept calling as Steve Turner, who played both end and quarterback, tore his knee ligaments so severely an operation was required.

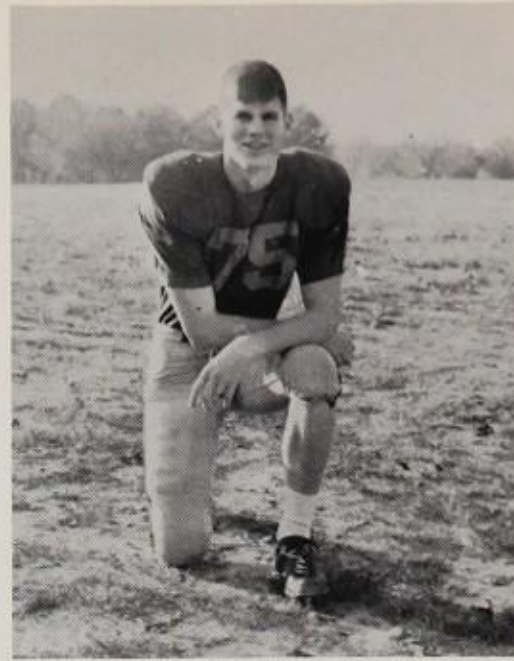

No less than 10 knee injuries have hampered the Mustangs this season . . . is this case a good argument for spring practice? The policy makers for the Prep League apparently don't think so.

ADS.

Piego Garrison

The student follows this sign to the growing business district of Memphis, to the suburban shopping centers, or to the corner drugstore. At any one place he patronizes the business concern of his choice. He spends his money on clothes, sporting goods, or books, and finds the ever increasing price of living bothersome to his budget. The business world surrounds the student and is an intricate part of his daily life.

Congratulations to the 1964 Senior Class

SCIENCE FAIR WINNERS

SEATED: S. Zalowitz, R. Foster, D. Lebovitz. STANDING: E. Carlile, F. Neill, E. Mabry, P. Tucker.

R. Foster, Mr. Pendegrast, L. Weiss, C. Towns, J. McNulty, C. Williams, B. Gerstenberger, D. Gray visit the Naval Air Reserve Training Unit at Millington, Tennessee.

Bill West, Annette Davidson, and Margaret Mitchell take their pledge at the Honor Society induction.

On that frantic day in September, Diane Davis distributes the new annuals.

In Appreciation

Layouts, dummy sheets, and grease pencils . . . These are a few of the many things it took to create this annual. After selling ads, getting sections in by the deadline, and having projects such as "Fantastic Features" and "A" day, the staff is proud to present the Mustang. We hope this yearbook will be enjoyed by each and every student. Thank you, the faculty and student body of East High, for your cooperation in helping us publish this year's Mustang.
